FEW DRIVERS BRAVE STORM

Sidewalks Must Be Cleared Within 12 Hours; Rural Mail Delayed.

Few motorists ventured out, Sunday, and those who braved the storm found the going extremely hazardous. Roads were reported snow-covered and slippery. Only one minor accident was reported to the local sub-station of the state highway patrol.

Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith today called attention of Gettysburg property owners to an ordinance which provides that sidewalks must be cleaned within 12 hours after snow stops falling. The local highway force was kept busy this morning opening crossings for pedestrians.

Failure of trains and buses to reach Gettysburg this morning delayed mails and city newspapers.

Rural mail carriers from the Gettysburg post office started out on their routes at 8:30 o'clock this morning, but none of them was able to negotiate any of the side roads on their routes. Patrons along main highways were served, but the drivers said snow on some of by-roads was drifted fence-high. All incoming mails here were delayed by failure of the star routes and train service.

PASTOR CITES THREE WAYS TO BE CHRISTIAN

Knowledge of Faults And Shortcomings Is Essential for a True Spirit.

Three ways to become Christian were outlined by the Rev. Spencer W. Augst, pastor of St. James' Lutheran church in his sermon, Sunday morning. His subject was "Being Christian," the text of which was taken from St. Luke 19:10: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

The sermon, in part follows: "The reason for our sermon subject this morning is because there are thoughts, feelings and actions in the life of each of us which cause us to pause and ask, 'Am I Christian in my whole life?' Our scripture lesson gives us the interview of Jesus and Zacchaeus. It portrays to us one of the greatest miracles of the Bible and of today: a man who is unpopular because of his business, unpatriotic because of his taking advantage of his own countrymen, a sinner because he does not observe the laws of God and this man rather than anyone else becomes Christian. The great goal of the whole church and its organizations is to put within the heart of each member the desire expressed in Dr. Poling's words, 'I would be Christian.'

"Correct Our Faults" "To become Christian we must know our faults, correct them and be filled with humility. For Zacchaeus that which he had to overcome in order to get within sight of Jesus was his stature. Each one of us has some obstacle which we must overcome before we can become wholly Christian. For some it is pride, for others greed, others the appetite of the flesh, this one has a secretly known weakness, that one has an unwillingness to love, many have a determined spirit to be unresponsive to the Gift of God. Whatever it is in your life, it must be discovered before it eats into your heart or you will never become Christian.

"To become Christian put yourself where you can see Jesus. Zacchaeus knew that Jesus was to pass that way. Therefore, he climbed a sycamore tree and put himself where he could see Jesus. There are thousands of people who are worshipping God this morning in His house. There are thousands of others who have not thought of worshipping God on this His day. Since the church was instituted by Jesus and

SAYS ROBBERY IS $90, NOT $156

Albert Smith Asks Police to Discontinue Probe of Mysterious Beating.

Albert Smith, 30, Gettysburg R. 5, asked state police, Saturday evening, to discontinue their investigation of his reported holdup by three negroes on the Lincoln Highway, four miles east of here, last Monday evening.

While admitting that he was held up and beaten by two of the three negroes in an automobile, Smith denied he was robbed of $156 as he reported afterward, state police said.

Smith also denied, the officers said, he had borrowed the money on an insurance policy several days before, as he reported to the officers during their investigation.

Smith told the officers, Saturday, he was robbed of $90 by the colored men, who stopped to ask him the way to Bedford, and then proceeded to beat him up when he refused to get in their car.

The money, Smith told state police, he had saved from his wages while working at Gordon Signor's roadhouse along the Lincoln Highway, near the Smith home.

Smith reported to state police last Monday evening that he was held up and beaten as he was walking from his home to Sunnyside inn, a quarter of a mile away. Although state police sent out a teletype broadcast of the reported holdup and robbery, no trace of the car in which Smith said the three negroes fled was found.

GO TO PRISON FOR CARBAUGH

Sheriff and Trooper Leave For Nashville to Arrest Harry Carbaugh.

Armed with extradition papers signed by Gov. George H. Earle, Sheriff B. W. Spence and Corporal L. D. Gritman, of the state police, left this morning for Nashville, Tennessee, to bring back Harry Carbaugh, of Hamilton township, accused of holding up and robbing the Fairfield National bank in 1933.

Carbaugh will be released from the Tennessee state penitentiary, Thursday, after serving a sentence for burglary. He was arrested in Tennessee under the alias, "George Williams," shortly after fleeing from Adams county.

Carbaugh has already been indicted in the Adams county courts for the Fairfield bank robbery, perpetrated September 14, 1933, by an unmasked man, whose face was blackened. The robber fled in a stolen car which later was found burned in the South Mountains.

Blizzard, Worst in Four Years, Blankets County With Ten Inches Of Snow and Blocks Many Roads

50 Are Reported Dead In Eastern States; 35 Below Zero Recorded.

(By The Associated Press)

Eastern states, buried under this winter's deepest snowdrifts, counted nearly 50 lives lost by the week-end blizzard.

In the wake of the storm 12 perished in Metropolitan New York, five up-state, 13 in New Jersey, 11 in the New England states and 9 in Pennsylvania.

The deaths were attributed directly to the weather.

Thousands of workmen toiled to clear streets and highways and transportation lines, crippled by the blizzard slowly resumed schedule.

Some rural sections still were completely isolated except for wire facilities and their schools remained closed.

Drifts were 28 inches deep in parts of Pennsylvania and 42 inches deep at Franconia Notch, New Hampshire.

The forecast of clear, cold weather gave promise that most blocked roads would be cleared by night.

28-inch Fall

A severe windstorm on the Gulf of Mexico brought deaths to ten members of an overturned fishing boat and the same fate was feared for 20 others on two other missing boats.

The coldest spot was Pembina, North Dakota, with 35 below zero. Pennsylvania's worst storm in years abated today.

Clear, cold weather was reported to the highway department from all sections.

The Susquehanna valley suffered most.

Luzerne and Sullivan county were virtually buried in 28 inches of snow.

More than 4,000 highway workers, augmented by thousands of PWA workers had all major routes but two opened by noon. The William Penn highway was closed between Harrisburg and Hamburg and U. S. Route 322 was blocked between Lewistown and Bellefonte.

Hundreds of secondary and rural routes were closed, forcing dismissal of schools in many sections.

Mr. Shields died at 6:15 o'clock Friday morning at his home, 316 York street, of complications after an illness of more than a year.

More Than 100 Cars, Trucks and Buses Are Marooned on Gettysburg-Harrisburg Road As Drifts Reach Six Feet; Western Maryland Train Is Derailed.

Borne on the wings of a northwest gale, at times reaching a velocity of 40 miles an hour, snow and sleet covered Gettysburg and Adams county Sunday, drifted shut main highways and by-roads, tied up motor traffic, delayed trains and kept the maintenance force of the state highway department busy day and night opening roads.

Beginning at 2 o'clock, Sunday morning, the blizzard, the most severe since March, 1932, continued with unabated fury for nearly 17 hours. At times, the snow swirled and eddied so thickly that it was almost impossible to see across the street.

After snowing for seven hours, the snow turned to sleet, Sunday afternoon, but later in the day, the icy particles gave way to snow again.

According to Dr. Henry Stewart, Gettysburg, and Dr. S. W. Frost, Arendtsville, weather recorders, 10 inches of snow fell. The precipitation of snow and sleet amounted to 1.72 inches of water in Gettysburg.

Accompanying the blizzard were low temperatures. The minimum temperature, Sunday was 18 degrees, while the maximum was only five degrees higher.

Coasting

Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith this afternoon announced that Springs avenue has been cleared for sledding and that the street from the top of Seminary ridge to Howard avenue has been roped off for the benefit of local tobogganers.

Gettysburgians are warned not to attempt to coast on any other street in town.

The large Springs avenue hill is one of the best in town and for the convenience and enjoyment of youngsters and others who enjoy sledding this hill must be the only one used.

Sore Backs

Many backs were stiff and sore this morning after townfolk struggled desperately to shovel snow from their sidewalks during Sunday's severe snowstorm.

The snowfall was of the light variety when the storm first reached this area but later it increased in force, followed by a heavy sleet that packed the snow and made shoveling difficult.

In the main most sidewalks were partially or wholly cleared by noon today.

Shoveling

Residents of Gettysburg are warned not to throw snow from their sidewalks into the center of streets.

A state law prohibits the shoveling of snow into the traffic-area of streets. Snow must be shoveled from sidewalks into the gutters, Burgess Wilbur J. Stallsmith warned today.

The burgess explained that the state and local highway departments are making every effort to keep the streets open to traffic and that if residents throw snow from their sidewalks into the center of streets they are liable to prosecution.

The burgess requested that local residents cooperate in an effort to keep sidewalks and streets cleared.

The burgess requested that local residents cooperate in an effort to keep sidewalks and streets cleared.

School Buses

School buses had considerable difficulty this morning to reach their destinations and many were unable to complete their route or even attempt to move through the snow-covered roads. Those traveling on back roads were unable to navigate.

At Cashtown two of the six buses that service the Franklin township consolidated school completed part of their runs.

Daniel Mickleby managed to reach Kane's store and return with some pupils in that section. J. C. Minter managed to reach Gettysburg with Cashtown high school pupils and returned with some grade pupils he picked up along the return route.

All of the eight teachers were present at the morning session of school.

SnowboundPupils

Approximately ninety pupils were absent from high school classes this morning unable to "get through" the snow-clogged roads in various parts of the country, Professor Guile W. Lefever, principal, announced today.

All of the absentees are recorded as "excused absentees" because of "unavoidable circumstances," Professor Lefever said.

Many of the pupils were present for the afternoon sessions after "fighting" their way through deep snows and using varied means of transportation to reach school.

Henry Cordes, West Lincoln avenue, is attending a furniture show in New York city.

STATE LOSES LIQUOR SUIT

Supreme Court Recedes for Two Weeks Without Rendering TVA Decision.

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP).—The supreme court entered upon a two weeks' recess today without handing down the much-awaited decision on the TVA act.

The court spoke its mind on several lesser cases in an 11-minute session then adjourned.

February 3 became the earliest date on which the immediate future of TVA can be determined.

Government counsel had just filed with the court two more briefs in the determined attempt to further the new deal there.

One asked dismissal of the suits by Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, to wipe out the Bankhead cotton act.

The other asked reconsideration of last Monday's order that $200,000,000 in impounded processing taxes be returned to the taxpayers.

Of the cases settled today the tribunal sided with lower courts that the law barring payments of obligations in gold applied to transactions between non-residents of the United States.

Pennsylvania lost its protest against paying federal taxes on its liquor monopoly system. The court refused to review the opinion of the third circuit court of appeals, September 16, which approved the taxes.

Council of State Ruling England

The King, propped up in bed, signed the document setting up the council to assume most of the royal duties during the Majesty's grave illness.

The sovereign's Privy Council, called from London, met in an apartment adjoining the royal sick-room and appointed the members of council.

The council consists of Queen Mary and the four Royal Sons, the Prince of Wales and the Dukes of York, Gloucester and Kent.

STRAY RAZOR BLADES ENDANGER TINY FINGERS

The housewife should warn the man of the house in no uncertain terms of the danger of razor blades if children are around. They should be kept in a box or container which is out of reach of the younger ones so they won't cause any accidents.

Throw out old medicines, especially those whose original uses you have forgotten.

Arrange your bathroom cupboard shelves so that the children's necessities are kept low and those they do not need or should not touch are far above them.

LUNCH BOX DELIGHT: CRACKERS WITH ICING

Why not give the child who takes lunch to school a special treat? Buy his favorite crackers and ice them at home with his favorite frosting flavoring. This will please the child and take the place of candy, giving them the sweetening that is good for them and removing the temptation to spend their pennies on cheap candies.

ALL MEXICANS VACCINATED Mexico, D. F. (AP).—The department of health has ordered every resident of Mexico vaccinated against smallpox. The treatment started in the army with school teachers and pupils next. All police prisoners are vaccinated and every plaintiff in a new law suit must show a certificate of vaccination.

Freak Tornadoes Kill 17 In Three Southern States

Chipley, Fla., Jan. 20 (AP).—Seventeen persons were killed in a series of freak tornadoes which ripped through three Southern states over the week-end.

Scores were injured and property damage was extensive.

On the heels of a bitter cold wave in the deep South, the first tornado struck in North Alabama, killing four persons Saturday. It shifted then to the Southeast, killing 13 persons in the vicinity of the Georgia-Alabama-Florida State lines Saturday night.

Five Killed in Georgia A family of six was wiped out near here, two were killed in Alabama and five in southeast Georgia.

Skipping from the extreme northern to the extreme southern part of Alabama, the gale cut a wide path near Chipley and passed on into Georgia. The victims there included five farm tenants whose homes were blown away.

The dead near here were Dan Dykes, 25-year-old farmer; Mrs. Dykes, 23, and their four children, Johnnie, 10; Evelyn, 6; Willie, 4 and Kelly, 16 months; an unidentified child near Ashford, Alabama, and an unidentified woman near Skipperville, Alabama.

Red Cross officials estimated the loss in this vicinity at $50,000.

Farmer and Wife Killed Those killed in Northern Alabama were Claude Portwood, 30, farmer; his 32-year-old wife; Randolph Rowell, 87, and Janet Rowell.

A number were injured in the Alabama storm and 25 were hurt, some critically, by the winds near here.

Two visitors at the Dykes' home, Frank McDade, 14, and Bruce McDade, 10, escaped death with the family by running through a hole left in the wall as a gust of wind snatched away the chimney.

LOVE SLAYER DEFENDS LIFE

Killer of Three Blames Wife's Parents for Breaking-up His Home.

Twin Falls, Idaho, Jan. 20.—Handsome Douglas Van Vlack, depicted by officers as a man whose love for his young divorced wife turned him into a triple killer went on trial today as her kidnapping slayer.

In court, where Idaho prosecutors will seek the death penalty, the stocky defendant will be confronted by the ones he accused of "breaking up" his marriage—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Hook, of Tacoma, Washington, parents of pretty, dark-haired Mildred Hook, 22.

The father's frantic alarm that his daughter had been kidnapped on a Tacoma street last November 23 put Western officers on the alert. Two were wounded fatally as they attempted to halt an automobile near Twin Falls in which, Van Vlack and Miss Hook were believed riding.

Threats Are Told Hook will testify that Van Vlack once threatened "to kill us all."

Sheriff E. F. Prater was prepared to testify that Van Vlack confessed orally he shot the officers November 25 and later sent a bullet through his wife's head while she was asleep, sheltered from the cold in a railroad culvert. Her body, with head crushed, was found November 29.

E. M. Sweeley, a ballistics expert, will be called by the state. Miss Hook was abducted a short time after she obtained an interlocutory divorce from Van Vlack.

Women Bring Gifts

"I'm sorry now," Van Vlack said in his jail cell where his presence drew many women visitors, some of whom brought him gifts of food. "If her folks had let us alone we would have been all right. We were going to Texas or Louisiana or some place and start all over again."

Sheriff Prater said Van Vlack's realization that the killing of the officers blasted his dreams to start life anew with his former wife led him to kill her.

since the church seeks to do His will, we are certain that those who enter His house will see him. But being Christian is not limited to our attendance at worship services. Into what paths do you go the other days of the week? We cannot expect to see Jesus in the midst of questionable company, when thinking evil thoughts, when doing evil deeds, when seeking worldly pleasure and that alone, when we are hating our brother, when using unjust practices in business and in our social relations. Zachaeus was a Jew with a Roman official position and he was out of place. Jesus came to seek and to save those who were out of place. Since Jesus was to come "That way," Zachaeus put himself in that way. When he sought to see Jesus, he put himself in the proper place. The trouble with us is that we have gotten into a certain rut, system, routine, situations and companionships, we have made for ourselves a certain reputation that we find it difficult to tear ourselves from our former life and really put ourselves where we can see Jesus, and follow Him. So often we say, "If we could just start over again." We can, if we will.

Senator Clark Denied Re-trial

Harrisburg, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Dauphin county court refused today to grant a new trial to Senator William H. Clark, Chester republican, convicted of attempted extortion and bribery.

President-Judge William Hargest said the court found no substantial error in the conduct of the trial so far as the admission or exclusion of testimony was concerned, or in the court's charge to the jury.

Clark was convicted of offering to trade support of administration legislation for state insurance contracts.

He had promised to bring those water pipes so low that the frost would never touch them. When asked the following summer whether he had made the change, he said, "Oh, no, we'll never have a winter like that again." You and I have promised ourselves and God that we will be Christian, that we will show forth His salvation in our life. Suppose Jesus would have only promised to suffer and die to bring us salvation. He not only promised but He fulfilled that promise to the uttermost. He has heard your promises. Determine to fulfill them now."

THE BOOMERANG CLUE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS: While Bobby Jones and Dr. Thomas are playing golf near their home in Wales, they find a man dying at the foot of a cliff. But Bobby is haunted almost as much by the woman's face he saw on a photograph in the man's pocket as by the occurrence itself. He has been in London for a few days, and on the train home he meets his friend, Lady Frances Derwent, a child-friend whom he has not seen for some time. Frankie is bored with London, and not too thrilled with the prospect of going home either.

Chapter Four ABOUT BADGER

Bobby's relationship with Frankie was a peculiar one. As children he and his brothers had played with the children at the Castle. Now that they were all grown up, they seldom came across used Christian names.

"I'm so tired of everything," said Frankie in a weary voice. "Aren't you?"

Bobby considered. "No, I don't think I am."

"My dear, how wonderful!" said Frankie.

"I don't mean I'm hearty," said Bobby, anxious not to create a painful impression. "I just can't stand people who are hearty."

Frankie shuddered at the mere mention of the word. "I know," she murmured. "They're dreadful."

They looked at each other sympathetically.

"By the way," said Frankie suddenly, "what's all this about a man falling over the cliffs?"

"Dr. Thomas and I found him," said Bobby. "How did you know about it, Frankie?"

"Saw it in the paper. Look."

She indicated with her finger a small paragraph headed "Fatal Accident in Sea Mist."

The victim of the tragedy at Marchbolt was identified late last night by means of a photograph which he was carrying. The photograph proved to be that of Mrs. Leo Cayman.

Mrs. Cayman was communicated with and journeyed at once to Marchbolt, where she identified the deceased as her brother, Alex Pritchard. Mr. Pritchard had recently returned from Siam. He had been out of England for ten years and was just starting upon a walking tour. The inquest will be held at Marchbolt tomorrow.

Bobby's thoughts flew back to the strangely haunting face of the photograph. "I believe I shall have to give evidence at the inquest," he said.

"How thrilling! I shall come and hear you."

"I don't suppose there will be anything thrilling about it," said Bobby. "We just found him, you know."

"Was he dead?"

"No—not then. He died about a quarter of an hour later. I was alone with him." He paused.

"Rather grim," said Frankie with that immediate understanding that Bobby's father had lacked.

"Of course he didn't feel anything—"

"No?"

"But all the same—well—you see, he looked awfully alive—that sort of person—rather a rotten way to finish—just stepping off a cliff in a silly bit of mist."

"I get you, Steve," said Frankie and again the queer phrase represented sympathy and understanding.

"Did you see the sister?" she asked presently.

"No. I've been up in town two days. Had to see a friend of mine about a garage business we're going in for. You remember him? Badger Beadon."

"Do I?"

"Of course you do. You must remember good old Badger. He squints."

Frankie wrinkled her brows.

"He's got an awfully silly kind of laugh—Haw, haw, haw—like that," continued Bobby helpfully.

Still Frankie wrinkled her brows.

"Well off his pony when we were kids," continued Bobby. "Stuck in the mud head-down, and we had to pull him out by the legs."

"Oh!" said Frankie in a flood of recollection. "I know now. He stammered."

"He still does," said Bobby proudly.

"Didn't he run a chicken farm and it went bust?" inquired Frankie.

"That's right."

"And then he went into a stock-broker's office and they fired him after a month?"

"That's it."

"And then they sent him to Australia and he came back?"

"Yes."

"Bobby," said Frankie, "you're not putting any money into this business venture, I hope?"

"I haven't got any money to put," said Bobby.

"That's just as well," said Frankie.

"Naturally," went on Bobby. "Badger has tried to get hold of someone with a little capital to invest. But it isn't so easy as you'd think."

"When you look round you," said Frankie, "you wouldn't believe people had any sense at all, but they have."

The point of these remarks seemed at last to strike Bobby.

"Look here, Frankie," he said. "Badger's one of the best—one of the very best."

"They always are," said Frankie. "Who are?"

"The ones who go to Australia and come back again. How did he get hold of the money to start this business?"

"An aunt or something died and left him a garage for six cars, with three rooms over, and his people stumped up a hundred pounds to buy second-hand cars with. You'd be surprised what bargains there are to be had in second-hand cars."

"I bought one once," said Frankie. "It's a painful subject. Don't let's talk of it. What did you want to leave the navy for? They didn't ax you, did they? Not at your age?"

Bobby flushed. "Eyes," he said gruffly.

It was just after five o'clock when they reached Sileham, which was the station for Marchbolt.

"The car's meeting me," said Frankie. "I'll give you a lift."

"Thanks. That will save me carrying this beastly thing for two miles." He kicked his suitcase disparagingly.

"Three miles, not two," said Frankie.

"Two miles if you go by the foot-path over the links."

"The one where—"

"Yes—where that fellow went over."

"I suppose nobody pushed him over, did they?" asked Frankie as she handed her dressing-case to her maid.

"Pushed him over? Good Lord, no. Why?"

"Well, it would make it much more exciting, wouldn't it?" said Frankie idly.

BONUS MEASURE WILL PASS SOON

Senate Expected To Take Early Action on Bill to Satisfy Veterans.

Washington, Jan. 20 (AP).—Bonus neutrality and farm aid legislation will center the attention of congress in starting its third full week today.

Administration chiefs predict the bonus bill will be enacted before the month is out, notwithstanding possible presidential objection.

The cashable bond bonus payment measure was slated for passage in the senate today while committees in both branches push forward in framing permanent legislation to steer the nation clear of future foreign conflicts.

Farm Question May Wait

It remained purely speculative today whether the agricultural question will receive attention in the senate after disposition of the veterans bill, or be deferred until later in the week.

The senate has two committee-approved farm bills before it. One, by Republican Leader McNary, of Oregon, would authorize an appropriation of $300,000,000 to pay farmers for acreage reduction contracts entered into before the supreme court decision invalidated AAA. Another by Chairman Smith (D. S. C.), of the agricultural committee, would authorize the customary annual appropriation of $60,000,000 for seed loans.

A third farm measure, which some have hinted might be labeled the administration bill, may be introduced Tuesday by Senator Bankhead (D. Ala.). This would amend the 1895 soil conservation law and appropriate $350,000,000 to resume in some respects a control principle not unlike the old AAA.

Interpretation of Parley Bankhead said the measure is his interpretation of an agreement reached at the white house conference which he attended. It is possible one of the farm aid appropriations will be incorporated in the independent offices bill already passed by the house.

NAVY DEFEATS BULLET CAGERS

Minus the services of Johnny Cleo, forward, who was out due to an injury, the Gettysburg college basketball team put up a valiant battle before bowing to the fast moving Navy dribblers, at Annapolis, Saturday afternoon, 40-34.

Seven minutes before the game ended the score was deadlocked at 33-33 but the Navy spurred to clinch victory.

The teams battled on even terms throughout the better part of the first half and twice found the Bream-men holding slight leads. Near the end of the half Navy forged to the front by a 25-20 score. The final half was furiously fought but a scoring spree by McFarland put the Midshipmen out in front in the closing minutes.

Coach Bream's cagers will next engage Lebanon Valley at Annapolis, Saturday evening, in a conference game.

WIDOW TO TELL MURDER FACTS

Pretty Mrs. Root Goes on Trial Today for Slaying Of Her Husband.

Memphis, Jan. 20 (AP).—Pretty Mrs. Daisy Alexander Root said Sunday she will "tell all" in her defense against charges she shot her husband over a red-headed "cigarette girl." She went on trial for murder today.

Reports were current the defense would introduce in evidence a diary of the slain man and might possibly plead the "unwritten law."

His Mother To Testify

The husband, Brenton Root, 32, handsome son of the Rev. Benjamin F. Root, rector of a Chicago Episcopal church and descendant of one of America's oldest families, was slain the morning of last November 3 as he lay in bed at his lodgings.

The state's first witness, District Attorney General W. T. McLain said, will be Mrs. Benjamin F. Root, the defendant's mother-in-law. She arrived here Saturday with a suitcase filled with letters, charts, diagrams and ledger sheets by which she said she hopes to prove her son's industry and love for his home and family.

"I brought a few of his things just to show how he spent his time," the sad-faced motherly woman said. "I want to point out what dreams he had for his little home—and that he loved his wife. All the things they have been saying about my son are not true."

Father Will not Attend

Following his son's death, the Rev. Mr. Root said he forgave his daughter-in-law and would sit beside her at the trial. He suggested at the time she be paroled to his custody and that he be permitted to give her a home and "the love of a father."

Recent indications are, however, he will not be present at the trial and that he has withdrawn his support from the accused slayer.

Prosecutor McLain has not said what penalty he will seek for Mrs. Root. She is charged with first degree murder, which carries a maximum penalty of death or life imprisonment.

Mrs. Anna Slance, 60, mother of Irvin, was also burned, and another son, Elmer, suffered serious injuries when he toppled from a ladder while attempting to rescue his brother.

With Us Daily

And it came to pass by the way in the inn, that the Lord met him, and sought to kill him.

The Zipporah took a sharp stone, and cut off the foreskin of her son, and cast it at his feet, and said, Surely a bloody husband art thou to me.

So he let him go: then she said,
A bloody husband thou art, because of the circumcision.

And the Lord said to Aaron, Go into the wilderness to meet Moses.
And he went and met him in the mount of God, and kissed him.

And Moses told Aaron all the words of the Lord who had sent him, and all the signs which he had commanded him.

And Moses and Aaron went and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel:

And Aaron spake all the words which the Lord had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people.

And the people believed: and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped.

Ladies Fair: By an announcement in another column, it will be seen that the Ladies connected with St. James (Lutheran) church in this place, propose holding a Fair during Court Week, in the Blues Hall—the proceeds of which are to pay for taking the gas into the church. Active preparations are going on for the occasion and the Fair promises to be one of the best ever gotten up in Gettysburg.
It is hoped that our citizens generally, of all denominations, will be liberal and encourage this commendable undertaking.

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

SOMETHING MORE IMPORTANT

I HEAR so often the statement: "But what of me? Where do I come in?"
To bring the immensity of life to oneself there must be something far more important, far more intriguing, than the mere centering of one's thoughts and efforts, one's time and strife, upon personal and selfish objectives.

Others. If we could only keep that word in our minds and have it engraved upon our hearts, how our own lives would be flooded with happiness—and all success would take care of itself.

There is much in the world that is more important than the mere thing of making money, or sacrificing ideals, character, and friends in order that some selfish fame or acclaim may result.

I often think of the man, once described to me, who had devoted his life to the making of money—and then, when all his wealth became to him a bore and a worry, tried to interest himself in art. But, after he had secured great masterpieces, and had them displayed in his home, he learned to his sorrow and regret, that he did not have within him the ability to appreciate them. The love of beauty had been crowded out—yet he then realized, too late, that it far outweighed all his wealth.

The richest man whom I have ever known was a poor man. He had nothing material but he had a glorious mind and a heart of pure gold.
From morning until night he went about trying to make someone else happy. He could not keep a dollar in his pocket. He must hunt up someone to share his purchasing power with him, or he would send most of it to someone in need. And he was always so happy!

We keep re-creating within ourselves as we create something in others.
There is nothing more important. The very beauty that we nourish, in turn, nourishes countless others.

Marian Martin Designs A Spring
Frock For 'Teens and Twenties

PATTERN 9760

From noon to midnight, this gay young frock's always on the "go," and twice as wearable for being a two-piece style. 'Teens and twenties will want to make it up for Spring (though it's right for now and mid-season) and the brighter the crepe—the livelier the print—the more compliments it's likely to receive. Isn't the blouse a delightful bit of styling all by itself—with flattering round yoke, shirred touches at sleeves and bodice, and that little open triangle there at the throat?
The skirt's one you'll want to wear occasionally with an extra blouse, to center seam and pretty knee flare in keeping with youthful simplicity. A very easy style to make, too, so get busy right away. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9760 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

Send for our new Spring pattern book, and take the guesswork out of planning and making your new the cutting, the character gains. I think he will show up better for it.

He won't have time to become boring!"

Romeo in the latter part of the play appeals to Howard more.
After he believes his bride dead,
the character becomes somewhat "Hamletlike"—much simpler, of course,
"but that," says Howard, "is better for pictures."

Age is not stressed in the Shearer-Howard version of the film.
Traditionally in their 'teens, Romeo and Juliet will be merely young—"nobody really knows their ages in fact," according to Howard. "In their later scenes, no child could think as they do."

BARD'S ROMEO
IS IMPROVED

Films Have Done Much to Improve Role of Romeo
In Recent Years.

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Leslie Howard (of London, New York and Hollywood) is not a star to measure a role's worth by the celluloid footage it gets.

If he were, he would not be playing Romeo to Norma Shearer's Juliet. Rather extraordinarily, the reason he is doing the film Romeo is the manner in which Scenarist Tablot Jennings amputated the role. Trimmed it, perhaps, would be more accurate, for Howard considers that in the cutting Romeo has emerged a much stronger, more interesting character.

Postponed 'Hamlet'

For weeks the actor, much wanted by Miss Shearer for the picture, was undecided. He had Shakespearean plans of his own for the stage, his own production of "Hamlet." When he read the script, however, he postponed his Broadway production. Now he is interested in Romeo, for the role itself as well as for its possibilities as a "lead in" for a Howard "Hamlet."
He has never "done" any Shakespeare before.

"I would never consider doing Romeo on the stage," he explains.
"Rarely have actors been outstand-ingly successful in the role, because Romeo is not nearly so interesting a character as Juliet. Kyrie Bellew was an exception. I understand, and currently in London John Gallgood is being exceptionally well received. But I always have had the feeling that Shakespeare was more interesting in Juliet, that Romeo was just the necessary foil."

No Time To Be Boring

In Jennings' film version, however, Romeo's long discourses upon love have been largely eliminated.
Another long — and good — scene that came out is that between Romeo and Friar Lawrence, in which the young lover is twitted kindly by the monk.

"I rather regret that," says Howard, "for it is a very human scene —but it is best omitted, for it does not advance the play. Because of

THE OLD HOT-DOG WAGON

Before the hot dog had grown stylish, when of friends it had only a few,
Before it was rigged upon toothpicks as a tid-bit for rich folks to chew,
When I was a fledgling reporter and a nickle was often my all,
I used to climb into a wagon down there by the old City Hall,
For there about midnight for supper the boys of the paper would meet
And a hot dog with mustard or radish in those days was something to eat.

We knew of its succulent flavor before it was known to the crowd.
We were the friends of the hot dog before it grew haughty and proud.
We sat there and talked the day over. That wagon—with friendship was stored.
There I first met a fellow named Henry. He told me his first name was Ford.
And he had the eye of a dreamer.
He was making an automobile.
But how could he know in that wagon what time would so swiftly reveal?

Now the hot dog has come into fashion. It is something on toothpicks to serve From domes made of silver and crystal and called by the women hors d'oeuvre.
The wagon has gone from the corner. In windmill and cascles and grills
The hot dog the countryside over enticies our dimes into tills:
But round it no memories linger such as those which I fondly recall
When the boys used to meet in that wagon down there by the old City Hall.

JUDGMENT IS RESERVED
ON CANADIAN "NEW DEAL"

Ottawa, Jan. 20 (AP)—Canada's supreme court Friday reserved judgment on validity of Section 498A of the criminal code, fixing fines and imprisonment for discriminatory discounts and price cutting.

The reservation came on the first of eight references on validity of so-called "New Deal" legislation passed in 1934 and 1935 by the former Bennett government. The provinces contend the dominion had no power to pass the legislation.

New Brunswick Friday joined Ontario and Quebec in definite opposition to the criminal code statute, claiming it was an invasion of provincial rights.

$127,432 LIQUOR TAX
BILL SENT TO AL CAPONE

Chicago, Jan. 20 (AP)—The federal government Friday sent to Al Capone a tax bill of $127,439.79 for illicit liquor he was charged with manufacturing from 1921 to 1932.

It was in the form of a lien on all Capone's property, filed in federal court by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue.

The department of justice recently ruled that alcohol taxes and penalties were collectible for the manufacture of illicit liquor during phohibition years, so Harrison man-up approximately 115,854 gallons for Capone and charged him $110 a gallon.

Capone is serving a sentence in the federal penitentiary at Alcatraz for income-tax evasion.

THIS NATURAL FOOD
GENTLY REGULATES
YOUR SYSTEM

Furnishes Needed "Bulk" for Regular Habits

Your doctor will tell you that keeping healthy depends far more on proper diet than on drugs, that common constipation is usually due to insufficient "bulk" in meals, and that patent medicines give you only temporary relief.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies gently acting "bulk" which corrects the cause of common constipation.*
This "bulk" takes up moisture, forming a soft mass which helps to cleanse the system.

ALL-BRAN gives your body the regular internal exercise it needs to prevent sluggishness. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

Studies on normal men and women have shown that this delicious cereal is perfectly satisfactory.
Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity, with milk or cream—or use in cooking.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Consult your doctor if you do not gain relief this way.
ALL-BRAN is much more effective than bran products. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's.
Made by Kellogg in

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty days after the date set for the opening thereof.

Plans and specifications may be obtained by contractors at the Office of the President of the School Board, Paul P. Lerew, Harrisburg Street, East Berlin, Pa., or at the Office of the Architect, B. Contractor will then be required to furnish both a "Labor and Materialmen's Bond" and a "Performance Bond."

Work shall not be started on the General Contract later than 5 days after the notification by the Owner to start work and on the remaining contracts as soon thereafter as the progress of the work in the building permits. KING GEORGE SINKS SLOWLY

Physician Does Not Believe British Monarch Will Survive Through Day.

Sandringham, Eng., Jan. 20.—King George's personal physician Lord Dawson of Penn., expects the sovereign to die today, he informed a close friend in London last night.

The distinguished physician, who has guarded the 70-year-old monarch's health for more than a decade, told his friend he believed the King would last through Sunday and Sunday night, but not Monday.

Sandringham house was ablaze with lights early today and there were signs of considerable activity within, whereas on Saturday virtually all lights were extinguished at 11 p. m. Three physicians and a nursing staff were at the King's bedside.

The monarch was believed to be gradually sinking as he entered the fourth day of his grave illness. Bronchial catarrh combined with a heart ailment necessitating administration of oxygen.

The last official bulletin, at 7:43 p. m.—that his condition was unchanged—was interpreted to mean the King's heart was slowly weakening.

Crisis Believed Near

It was learned that some members of the royal household already have been discussing changes likely in the event of the Prince of Wales becoming king.

The next few hours—particularly those just before dawn—may decide if the kindly gentleman with the neat beard who is sovereign of 450,000,000 persons will get better or continue the decline that leads to death.

One group was gratified that Sunday night's bulletin did not say that weakening of the King's heart had accelerated. Others considered the very brevity of the official information and the extreme secrecy regarding the King's condition as an ominous sign.

The Prince of Wales, heir to Britain's vast empire, left his

"NO. 1" BANDIT BECOMES HERO

President Quezon of Philippines Receives Leader of Jungle Band.

Manila, Jan. 20 (AP).—The Philippines' foremost "public enemy," Bandit Chief Nicholas Encallado, became a provincial public hero today and a defender of the government—at a cost of 29 lives and some criticism directed at President Manuel Quezon.

Triumphantly Encallado rode into his home town, Sampaloc, Tayabas Province, in the No. 1 automobile belonging to the president.

Thronged turned out to welcome the erstwhile leader of a band that killed 11 persons and lost 18 of its own members in one of the bloodiest episodes in recent Philippine history.

$5,000 Dead or Alive

Thirty-six hours previously 200 constabularymen were hunting Encallado. There was a reward of $5,000 for him, dead or alive.

"Quezon thanked me for surrendering," said Encallado, addressing the throng.

"Quezon opened a new vista in my life. He taught me to serve my country instead of fighting the government."

Encallado's married daughter, Aurelia, 31, persuaded her father to surrender on a promise of leniency.

To Get Rest of Band

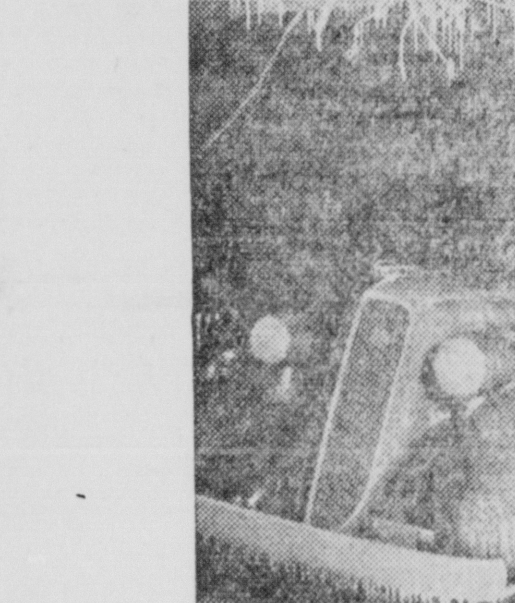

Quezon freed him temporarily on his promise to return to the jungles and round up the rest of the band.

Public reaction in Manila appeared critical of Quezon's releasing the bandit after such a long and bloody manhunt.

11 DIFFERENT CARS

FILLED WITH BLUE SUNOCO AND SUNOCO MOTOR OIL

REFRIGERATED . . . BELOW ZERO

started in split-second average, and stayed started

Here is one of the greatest quick-starting demonstrations ever attempted. Not just one car; not two or three, but eleven popular makes of cars (all Standard 1936 Models) were filled with Blue Sunoco, Sunoco Motor Oil and Sunoco Transep. Then they were placed in a huge refrigerator, one by one, and thoroughly chilled for hours below zero.

In the presence of competent, impartial witnesses all eleven cars started in an average of less than one second, and they stayed started . . . These tests should prove that you and every motorist, no matter what car you drive, never should be troubled by hard winter starting, even at zero or below. A test in your own car will confirm this statement.
